Origin: Basel, Switzerland

The Eltex HVG 30-5/H high-voltage generator is a robust industrial device for generating and regulating high DC voltages up to 30 kV. With an output power of up to 150 VA, this device is ideal for electrostatic applications such as coating, surface treatment, or electrostatic discharge. The system consists of the components shown in the images.

Advantages:

Precise control: Separate displays for voltage and current enable precise settings.

Suitable for industrial use: High operational reliability due to voltage and current limitation.

Flexible use: Ideal for laboratory and industrial processes in the field of electrostatics.

Sustainable: Buying used significantly reduces environmental impact.

General functions:

Generation of high voltage up to 30,000V at 150VA power

Analog display of output voltage (kV) and current (mA)

Adjustable voltage and current limiter

External remote switch connection for HV release

Fan-cooled metal housing for continuous operation

High voltage output via safe sockets

CO<sub>2</sub> savings:

By purchasing a used high-voltage generator instead of a new one, the production of new resources is avoided. Estimated savings: 600–900 kg of CO<sub>2</sub>, which corresponds to the average annual emissions of a small household.
